Guest Speakers on the day will be:

Inoke Afeaki

3 Time World Cup Rugby
Union Player

My Particular role will be to link up rugby players and rugby staff with various schools, amateur clubs and professional clubs around the world.

My rugby career around the world gives me a great network of reliable people in each country. An example is currently a Rugby Club in Macon, France are linked to the University of Lyon and can offer various courses of study to prospective players they are searching for. CASE Rugby of Saint-Etienne, France are looking to do the same. I see this as an excellent chance for a mature young adult to really enjoy the experience of another culture and have your study and living expenses paid for plus play Rugby at a competitive level.

The benefits are great! I also Coach, and Coach Coaches which cover major parts of the game but Backs Play is something I should ask help for. I can easily get an elite level coach to give expert advice

This wikipedia link gives a brief outline of my career http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Inoke_Afeaki.

I am a great believer that your sport can be a vehicle to aid aspirations you have in mind to do concurrent or when you finish your competitive sporting days. Using Promo Sports will let you access all our network and if need be, we will go search for new partners that will aid your development as a person both in and outside your sport.

Dillon Boucher

Burger King Breakers
New Zealand

A foundation Breaker, Boucher enjoyed his second season back with the club last season after spell with the Perth Wildcats and two seasons with the Brisbane Bullets, which included an NBL title in 2006-07. Age has not dimmed the constant movement and energy Boucher brings to his game, not to mention great leadership on and off the court.

Boucher continues to stack up the numbers with 146 boards, 92 assists and 36 steals last season contributing to his naming as the ANBL Defence Man of the Year. Boucher was also named Fans Player of the Year with the Burger King Breakers. The 1.96cm forward is no stranger to success, having won a record number of New Zealand NBL titles – a staggering nine, seven with Auckland, one with Waikato and one with the Breakers – the most recent in 2010/11 season. He also made the NZ NBL All-Star Five in 2002, 2003 and 2007.

Now retired from the Tall Blacks, the New Plymouth born Boucher made his NZ debut at the Goodwill Games in 2001 and was a member of the hugely successful 2002 World Championship team that won Team of the Year and overall honours at the Halberg Awards in early 2003.

He also attended the Athens Olympics in 2004 and the 2006 World Champs in Japan during an international career that finished just a dozen matches short of 100 games. Boucher has continued with the Tall Blacks in an assistant role to Nenad Vucinic and was part of the recent World Champs in Turkey.
